

March Newsletter 2018

Happy March! Spring is most definitely on its way, even if we did have snow last week! I was studio bound for three days so I had a lovely week watching the wildlife, I hope you and your families stayed warm and safe too?

Affordable Art Range

New work for the Affordable Art Range these are all originals, framed and priced under £50, to see more of the range on my website.

New Blog

I have started a new blog called "It's All About Art" which discusses art tuition and creative advice. Don't miss April's post (which will be available after Easter) which will be discussing the creative process and how to develop ideas.

Work in Progress

I am currently working on my new painting "Sunflowers" which I am hoping will be finished in time for the Artists Open Houses in Brighton in May. I will be exhibiting at the Ming Gallery in Hove, and will be doing a FREE drawing workshop, there will be more information nearer the time.

I have documented each stage of this painting which can be seen on facebook, Instagram and twitter

Art Seasonally

These are my latest drawings from the Art Seasonally project. I just had to capture all the snowdrops in great swathes across the garden and field, they are so beautiful and cheery. I couldn't resist the chilly Pheasant surrounded by the dusting of snow we had last week as he peered through the fence at me. Don't Forget Your Easter Cards!

Lots of spring designs available, all blank for your personal message, so don't have to be used for Easter.
